Suicide Prevention/ Intervention Training

Training Professionals & Communities in Suicide Prevention & Response®

School personnel are well positioned to notice changes in youth behaviors, attitudes, academic performance and social interactions which may signal symptoms of depression, substance abuse and other suicide risk factors.

A unique community-based intervention, Connect increases the competence of school communities to promote suicide prevention, recognize individuals at risk and respond to individuals who are thinking about or who have attempted suicide. This training includes National Best Practice protocols, interactive case scenarios, discussion, exercises, PowerPoint, and printed materials.

Suicide Prevention/Intervention training highlights:

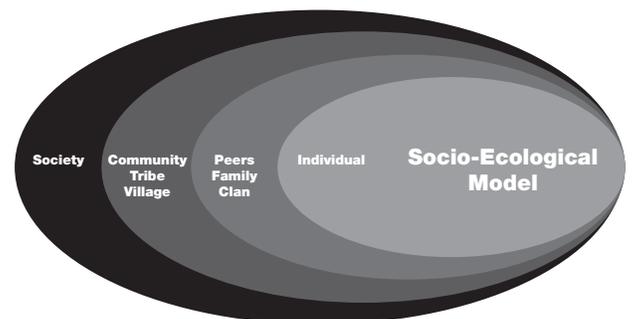

- National Best Practices for school personnel and educators regarding school suicide prevention and crisis response related to suicidal behavior
- Recognizing risk and protective factors and responding to warning signs for suicide
- Intervening with students or others at risk and connecting the individual with appropriate resources
- Transition plans for students who return to school after a suicide attempt
- Communicating with students and parents/guardians in crisis situations and knowledge of local resources
- A review of individual school crisis response plans and suggestions for including suicide incidents as part of these plans
- Suicide as a public health issue and its impact on communities, family members and friends
- Suicide data and how age, gender, culture and other factors impact suicide risk
- Strategies for promoting help-seeking behavior and reducing stigmatizing attitudes
- Individual, family and community risk and protective factors and ways to strengthen the positive influences that prevent suicide and reduce risky behaviors
- Youth culture, including electronic communication, social networking, peer group influences and bullying and how these impact risk and protective factors
- Confidentiality and reporting requirements with respect to FERPA and HIPPA, and guidelines for timely response and notification
- Best Practices concerning restricting access to lethal means, safe messaging, communication and responding to media inquiries
- Strategies to increase suicide prevention efforts through collaboration with community and campus services
- Self-care skills
